REBEL CHOIRS

Training Choir

The training choir is a beginning group anyone can join no matter their musical background. All sixth-grade students are placed in the group and will not be required to audition or sing alone. Training choir allows students to learn the foundations of music, vocal techniques, and sight-reading.

Lewis Lads

Lewis Lads is unique male ensemble that meets the needs of middle school boys and the voice changes they will experience. Many guys tend to quit singing during the middle school voice change due to embarrassment and obstacles that come when the voice starts to lower. This choir was started to provide a safe environment to keep boys singing through the voice change.

Opportunity

Choir is a performance class. This means students are expected to sing for concerts, rehearsals, and programs. In addition to school performances, optional and extracurricular opportunities are available to all choir students and are listed below:
